

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE DISTRICT OF OREGON

TIMOTHY ALLEN LEWIS,

Petitioner,

Civil No. 08-3061-CL

v.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

J.E. THOMAS,

Respondent.

CLARKE, Magistrate Judge.

Petitioner filed a petition for writ of habeas corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241 and moves to proceed in forma pauperis (#1). Petitioner's Application (#1) is allowed. However, for the reasons set forth below, the petition should be denied without prejudice and this proceeding should be dismissed.

Petitioner seeks to enjoin FCI Sheridan from "banning" electric cordless razors. Petition (#2) p. 3. Petitioner contends that "without the cordless razors, it is cruel and unusual punishment." Id. Petitioner argues "... it is a health issue. There will be more spreading staff and M.A.R.S.A, along with other diseases that accumulate." Id.¹

Petitioner alleges that he submitted "the informal resolution (BP8)" on June 9, 2008, but has not alleged that he pursued or completed any other administrative remedies. See, Petition (#2), p. 4.

Federal prisoners are required to exhaust all available administrative remedies prior to bringing a petition for writ of habeas corpus. Terrell v. Brewer, 935 F.2d 1015 (9th Cir. 1991); Martinez v. Roberts, 804 F.2d 570 (9th Cir. 1986); see also, Fendler v. United States Parole Com'n, 774 F.2d 975, 979 (9th Cir. 1985); Brown v. Rison, 895 F.2d 533, 535 (9th Cir. 1990).

Requiring a petitioner to exhaust his administrative remedies aids "judicial review by allowing the appropriate development of a factual record in an expert forum." Ruviwat v. Smith, 701 F.2d 844, 845 (9th Cir. 1983). Use of available administrative remedies conserves "the court's time because of the possibility that the relief applied for may be granted at the administrative level." Id. Moreover, it allows "the administrative agency an opportunity to correct errors occurring in the course of administrative proceedings." Id.

Although, in the past courts allowed actions to proceed despite a litigant's failure to exhaust administrative remedies, see, United Farmworkers v. Arizona, 669 F.2d 1249, 1253 (9th Cir. 1982), the "futility exception" was superceded by the Prison Litigation Reform Act, 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(a), which unequivocally mandates exhaustion of administrative remedies. Porter v. Nussle, 532 U.S. 731 (2001); Booth v. Churner, 532 U.S. 731 (2001); Nyhuis v. Reno, 204 F.3d 65 (3rd Cir. 2000).

The Bureau of Prisons has established an administrative remedy procedure which through an inmate may seek formal review of any complaint regarding any aspect of his imprisonment. See, 28 C.F.R. § 542 et seq.

Petitioner has not exhausted available administrative remedies in this case. For all the sound policy reasons set forth in Ruviwat and the requirements of the PLRA, he should be required to do so.

Petitioner's Petition (#2) should be denied without prejudice to re-file after petitioner has exhausted administrative remedies with respect to his claim. This proceeding should be dismissed.² Petitioner's Motion for appointment of counsel (#3) should be denied as moot.

This recommendation is not an order that is immediately appealable to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. Any notice of appeal pursuant to Rule 4(a)(1), Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, should not be filed until entry of the district court's judgment or appealable order. The parties shall have ten (10) days from the date of service of a copy of this recommendation within which to file specific written objections with the court. Thereafter, the parties have ten (10) days within which to file a response to the objections. Failure to timely file objections to any factual

This recommendation is consistent with Judge Hogan's Order of Dismissal without prejudice (#4) in Long v. Thomas, Civ. No. 08-645-CL (entered June 6, 2008), and Judge Panner's Order (#11) entered July 8, 2008, in Pierce v. Thomas, Civ. No. 08-641-CL (adopting Report and Recommendation (#4) entered June 6, 2008).

determinations of the Magistrate Judge will be considered a waiver of a party's right to de novo consideration of the factual issues and will constitute a waiver of a party's right to appellate review of the findings of fact in an order or judgment entered pursuant to the Magistrate Judge's recommendation.
